

° WILLAN PUBLISHING ° THE INSTITUTE OF CRIMINOLOGY ° FEDERATION PRESS °

Book Launch

Governing through Globalised Crime - Futures for international criminal justice

By Mark Findlay

Published April 2008

ISBN 1-843923-08-4

Contact Willan Publishing to purchase: www.willanpublishing.co.uk, +44(0)1884 849085

Willan Publishing and Federation Press together with the Institute of Criminology invite you to the launch of Governing through Globalised Crime
To be launched by Professor David Brown, UNSW

Date: Tuesday 13th May

Time: 5.30pm

Venue: The Minter Ellison Room, Level 13, University of Sydney Law School, 173-175 Phillip Street, Sydney 2000

RSVP: Rachel Miller R.Miller@usyd.edu.au 93510239
(acceptances only)

Governing through Globalised Crime provides an analysis of the impact of globalisation of crime on the governance capacity of the international criminal justice system. It explores how the perceived increased risk in global security has resulted in a reformulation of the relationship between crime and governance.

'The war on terror, with its merger of the logics of crime control and international security has created an irreversible dynamic of change that threatens to transform the international legal order into a system of crime control. It has become impossible to think through the problem of crime governance within the sovereign state yet few scholars of crime understand the emerging global institutions of justice, and few international law experts take crime seriously as a problem of governance. Fortunately Mark Findlay's scholarship has long brought together both fields. In this remarkable study Findlay provides a compelling account of the rise of this new international form of crime governance, and a communitarian vision of justice that can compete with crime and risk in both international and domestic settings.'

Professor Jonathan Simon (Berkeley Center for Criminal Justice, University of California)